Why should I take this course?

In the climate today VIP's, executives and individuals often feel they require the services of highly professional close protection operatives who they can rely upon to ensure their total safety and security.

As a close protection officer you may be responsible for your client's personal safety whilst they are at home, work or whilst they are travelling anywhere in the world. This taxing role may require you to undertake careful planning of routes, performing reconnaissance as well as careful searches and risk assessments.

The world of close protection is a highly specialised field and clients expect the highest standards from their operatives, in both terms of their operational knowledge and skills but also the standard of their behaviour and appearance.

We are proud to offer Edexcel's Close Protection Course

RTC's advice and training:-

- to provide total safety and security
- planning movements and routes
- performing local surveillance sweeps
- close protection vehicle techniques
- communication and conflict management skills
- skills in emergency medical procedures

Our intensive training programme has been created to meet the demanding and exacting needs that client's demand from their close protection operatives in this highly competitive industry.
